GENERAL REMARKS.

APPARATUS.

The Institute is furnished with a superior Church Organ, and the best seven octavo Plano Forte, Guitars, and a double action Harp have also been provided. A good Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus belongs to the School, and classes have the benefit of experiments.

COURSE OF STUDY.

A definite and comprehensive course of study is laid down and the classes, beginning at the foundation of education—Reading and Spelling—are led on carefully and thoroughly, each pupil being advanced as the various branches are fully understood.

It is the aim of all who teach in this Institution to train the mind of the pupil to patient and independent thought, to generalise and condense; one of the most difficult, yet useful of lessons.

Mathematics and the Languages are specially valued for mental discipline.

CLASSIFICATION.

Real attainments constitute the basis of classification. Promotion to the higher classes will depend entirely on scholarship and not on the length of time the pupil may have attended this or some other Institution. Four years are necessary for the completion of the Scientific Course and five for the Classical.

A daily record is kept of the attendance, scholarship and deportment of each pupil.

DIPLOMAS.

Those who pass satisfactory examinations in the full course of English Studies with one of the Ancient or Modern Languages, and are proficient in Harp, Piano, or Guitar Music, will be entitled to a Diploma, the highest honor a Literary Institution can confer. Drawing and Printing, or a good knowledge of an additional Language will be considered an equivalent for Music.

Qualification is made the sole basis of graduation and not the mere fact of having completed a course of study; but pupils receiving Diplomas must be members of the school at least one year.

GOVERNMENT.

The government of the school will be kind and parental, but decided. We aim to secure strict obedience to rules, from a principle of love, rather than of fear. Lady-like conduct is required of every pupil at all times. Industry, order, neatness, punctuality, courtesy, good temper and propriety of language and deportment, are carefully enjoined as essential elements of the true woman.

Strict discipline and uninterrupted application are indispensable for the attainment of good scholarship and this discipline must be maintained. Parents and guardians are therefore requested not to listen to the sollicitations of their daughters and wards for permission to return home during the session, or to leave school before the actual close.

DEEDS.

Neatness and simplicity of dress are enjoined upon all; but extravagance in this particular is strictly prohibited; and patrons are particularly requested not to supply their daughters and wards with expensive apparel.

POCKET MONEY, INCIDENTAL EXPENSES, &c.

Parents and guardians are explicitly desired not to furnish their daughters and wards with much money. To defray the expenses of necessary clothing, washing, books, stationery, etc., a deposit must be made with the Principal sufficient to meet the demand.

ESTIMATES, &c.

The Principal earnestly desires, that no boxes of edibles be sent to the pupils boarding in the Institute, as this practice has proved a fruitful source of evil.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Particular attention will be paid to the health of the pupils and the most vigilant care exercised over them in this respect.

A commodious pleasure coach has been provided, without extra charge to convey boarders to and from town and church, and also for recreation and pleasure, on Saturday, in the surrounding country.

SICKNESS.

Special provision has been made for those who may be sick. In case a pupil is sufficiently sick to need the attention of a physician, the Principal will communicate the same promptly to the parent or guardian.

MORAL AND SOCIAL INFLUENCES.

Students from abroad, except those living in the families of guardians or near relatives will hereafter be required to board in the Institute, with the Principal and his Associates. A well regulated household, comprising representatives from the best families in different sections of the country, must form a valuable school for moral, intellectual and social culture, and constitute a circle in which are found all the attractions and safeguards of a desirable and happy home. Careful attention is paid to the study of the Bible; and the aim of the Sabbath School established in the Institute, is to impress mind and heart with religious truth, without sectarian influences. A weekly prayer-meeting is held by the pupils on Saturday evening.

BUILDINGS AND ACCOMMODATIONS.

The Buildings have been constructed solely for educational and household purposes, and with special reference to health, convenience and comfort. They are heated with steam, lighted with gas, and supplied throughout with water from five large cisterns. Hot water and cold, is conveyed into all the private rooms, and ample provision has been made for ventilation and bathing. Only two occupants to a room, and each pupil is provided with a neat and commodious single bed. It has been the aim of the Proprietor to furnish the apartments in such a manner as to refine the taste and make them attractive and homelike.

The Chapel, or Study Hall, eighty feet long, fifty wide, and twenty feet high, is furnished with the latest and most approved style of school chairs and single desks, so corresponding to each other as to render the position of the pupil both easy and healthful. It has in connection six recitation rooms.

The annual vacation embraces the months of July and August. Pupils who desire it can remain at the Institute during the vacation, by paying $50, each, extra. A public Review of classes is held near the close of January, and a general Examination the last of June, followed by graduating exercises.

Application for admission should be made as early as possible.

LOCATION.

The Institute buildings are situated on the south side of Lexington Street, about one-fourth of a mile east of town. The grounds embrace some seven acres. In healthfulness of climate, and beauty of scenery, Danville can hardly be surpassed; and to these natural advantages are added those of its various and popular Institutions of Learning, which, with the intelligence, refinement and hospitality of its citizens, combine to render it a most desirable educational home for both the sons and daughters of our land. It is readily accessible from the South and West by the Lebanon branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and from the North and East by the Kentucky Central Railroad. Crab Orchard Springs, a delightful summer resort, so well known throughout the South for the various and valuable qualities of their mineral waters, are but twenty miles from Danville, and a good turnpike brings them into daily and pleasant connection with this place by stage.
