KENTUCKY COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

Founded in 1854.

THE views in this booklet show something of the plans of Kentucky College for Women, with other improvements that are contemplated in the near future. The campus with over three hundred trees occupies a beautiful site of about twenty acres, one thousand feet above the sea level. East Hall and West Hall, the east and west wings of the splendid building planned as a whole, are occupied at the present time as the two main buildings upon the grounds. The erection of Morgan Hall will follow immediately, making one splendid, continuous building, as shown in the illustration. The buildings now in use give the college a total boarding capacity of one hundred and fifty students, with every provision for health, safety, and comfort. The course of study in all departments is thoroughly standardized and will be extended as rapidly as the additional equipment is installed.

Those interested in a school of this character for young women, are invited to correspond with the President, Frances Simral Riker, or the Dean, Ruth Andrus, Kentucky College for Women, Danville, Kentucky.

COURSES OF STUDY

I. JUNIOR COLLEGE. This is a thoroughly standard course with required work in English, History, Latin, Mathematics, the Modern Languages and Science, together with a liberal number of electives. It covers two full years of the standard college course and is especially suited to High School graduates and others whose training fits them for entrance.

II. COLLEGE PREPARATORY. The regular College Preparatory course, fitting for entrance to any standard college or university, is here offered. Our certificate admits to Mount Holyoke, Vassar and other institutions of like standing.

III. HOME ECONOMICS. New laboratories and class rooms especially designed for the work have been equipped and a two years' course has been established. Upon the completion of the work a diploma is granted. Students who desire to fit themselves to teach, and others who wish instruction in these branches, are here given most practical as well as theoretical training.

IV. MUSIC. Especially strong courses in Pianoforte, Violin and Vocal Music with Harmony, Theory and the History of Music are offered in the Music Department. Instruction is given by artist teachers of recognized standing. In connection with this department, an "Artist Series" of concerts is given each year by the world's greatest vocal and instrumental artists.

V. ART and EXPRESSION. Courses in both of these departments are offered adapted to those who seek general training therein, as well as for those who desire to specialize in these subjects.

HEALTH AND RECREATION

KENTUCKY COLLEGE FOR WOMEN has enjoyed an exceptional health record. No student enrolled in the boarding department has ever had a serious illness while under our care.

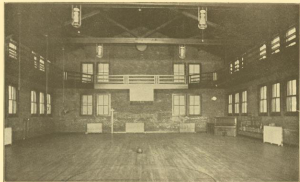

A splendid gymnasium with swimming pool, bowling alleys and roomy, well lighted floor space affords opportunity for varied exercise. Outdoor life and sports are encouraged through tennis, field hockey, soccer ball and other forms of healthful exercise in the open air.

The table is abundantly furnished with the best that the market affords, well cooked and delightfully served. A Dietitian is in charge of the domestic department and menus are skillfully chosen and scientifically prepared.

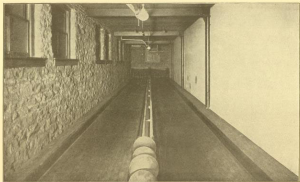

A graduate nurse is available for those who need her services and is on guard at all times to prevent by counsel and watchfulness serious illness of every type. Pure water, modern plumbing and bedrooms with plenty of sunlight and proper ventilation are additional guarantees of the care bestowed upon the health of our students.

EXPENSES

KENTUCKY COLLEGE FOR WOMEN is not operated for profit. Every dollar invested by patrons in the education of their daughters or wards is returned in service. Charges are kept as low as is consistent with the best educational ideals. (See catalog for schedule of charges.)

Each student is given personal sympathetic attention and is made to feel that this is indeed a real home. To secure this end, every possible liberty is granted that does not interfere with good discipline and the development of sane, womanly character.

Those seeking high standards of scholarship and the careful safeguarding of health and morals will find the environment at Kentucky College for Women all that could be desired by the most exacting.
